Glossary — How to Read This Report

Terms that repeat throughout this report are defined once below. Terms specific to a single section are explained inline within that section.

Confidence

Confidence indicates how well-verified your key profile inputs are and whether they meet the relevant criteria -- rated Low, Medium, or High.

Strength

Signal strength reflects how closely your profile matches the typical pattern of applicants who succeed on this pathway -- distinct from Confidence (data verification) or Friction (points/benchmark gap).

Friction Level

Friction Level indicates the gap between your profile's points and the current invitation benchmark for this pathway -- rated Low, Medium, High, or Extreme.

Signal Confidence

Signal confidence indicates how much weight this data point should be given -- not how well the profile matches the pathway.

Evidence Load

Evidence load reflects the volume and complexity of documentation this pathway typically requires -- not whether that evidence has been provided yet (see Evidence status).

Evidence Status

Evidence status shows whether a specific document or proof point has actually been supplied in this profile -- not how much evidence is required overall (see Evidence load).

Points Gap

Points gap is the numeric distance between your profile's estimated points and the threshold this pathway currently requires.

Hard Gate

A Hard Gate is a binding eligibility rule -- an age cap, salary floor, points minimum, or tenure requirement -- that, if breached, makes a pathway ineligible regardless of any other favorable signal.

Financial Roadmap

The figures below are an estimated breakdown of the major official and living-cost items you may encounter during the application process.

Category	Amount	Note
Government Visa Application Charge (VAC)	From AUD 6,135 (main applicant)	Official visa application charges vary by subclass and were updated for the post-1 July 2026 schedule. Subclass 482 base charge: AUD 4,015. Subclass 189 base charge: AUD 6,135. Subclass 190/491 base charge: about AUD 6,140. Charges can be indexed periodically and should be verified before lodgement.
English Language Test (IELTS / PTE / OET)	AUD 385–590 (varies by test and location)	Tests accepted for Australian migration include: IELTS Academic or General Training (~AUD 385–405 per attempt), PTE Academic (~AUD 375–395), OET (Occupational English Test, used by healthcare occupations, ~AUD 587), and TOEFL iBT (~AUD 340–390, accepted for some streams). Minimum Competent English thresholds: IELTS 6.0 in all four bands, PTE 50 in all bands. Achieving Superior English (IELTS 8.0+ in all four bands or PTE 79+) unlocks 20 additional points in the Australian points test — a significant investment if retesting is needed. Scores must be no more than 3 years old at time of visa grant.
Second-instalment risk (dependant English status)	About AUD 4,890 per dependant (not indicated by your provided family status)	Where a dependant aged 18+ cannot show functional English, a second instalment can apply per dependant. Your provided family status does not indicate this risk, but it should be reassessed if circumstances change.
Skills Assessment — Australian Computer Society (ACS)	AUD 1,498	Assessing authority: Australian Computer Society. Default pathway: [object Object]. Processing time: 12 wk. Notes: [object Object] [object Object] Source: ACS Migration Skills Assessment — official guide, fee increase effective 3 November 2025 (last verified 2025-11-03).

Category	Amount	Note
Health Examination (eMedical)	AUD 300–500+ (per person, varies by age and country of residence)	Every applicant must complete a medical examination through Bupa Medical Visa Services, the panel provider approved by the Department of Home Affairs. Indicative costs: adults AUD 300–400; children under 15 approximately AUD 150–250. The examination includes a chest X-ray (for applicants 11+), blood tests, and a general physical assessment. Medical results are electronically transmitted to the Department of Home Affairs via the eMedical system — there is no paper report to submit. Results are valid for 12 months. Applicants from tuberculosis-prevalent countries may require additional chest monitoring, extending the process by 6–12 months.
Police Clearance Certificates	AUD 42–200+ (per person, varies by country)	Every applicant aged 18+ must provide police clearance certificates for every country where they have lived for 12 months or more in the past 10 years (for skilled visas). The Australian Federal Police (AFP) check costs AUD 42 and is processed online within 15 business days. International certificates vary widely: United Kingdom (ACPO check, ~GBP 25), United States (FBI Identity History, ~USD 18 + fingerprint costs), India (state-level, ~INR 500–2,000 plus notarisation), China (~CNY 80–100 via local public security bureau). Non-English certificates must be translated by a NAATI-certified translator. Plan for 4–12 weeks lead time for overseas police clearances — start these before lodging your EOI.
NAATI-Certified Translation	AUD 80–200 per page (NAATI-certified translator)	All documents not in English must be translated by a NAATI-certified translator (National Accreditation Authority for Translators and Interpreters). Rates range from AUD 80 per page for simple personal documents to AUD 150–200 per page for technical or legal documents. For a typical visa application with 8–12 documents (transcripts, employment certificates, marriage certificate, police clearances), translation costs commonly total AUD 800–2,500. NAATI-certified translators can be located via the NAATI online register — never use uncertified translations as they will be rejected by the Department of Home Affairs.
Registered Migration Agent (RMA) or Immigration Lawyer	AUD 3,000–10,000+ (varies by visa type and case complexity)	Engaging a Registered Migration Agent (RMA) or immigration lawyer is not mandatory, but is strongly recommended for applications involving prior visa refusals, complex employment histories, or family members with health or character issues. Typical fee ranges: full EOI + 189/190/491 skilled application: AUD 3,000–8,000; state nomination assistance only: AUD 1,000–2,500; 482 employer-sponsored nomination and visa: AUD 5,000–10,000+. Verify any agent's registration via the MARA (Migration Agents Registration Authority) public register at mara.gov.au . Never pay upfront in full before the work commences.

Bridge to PR / Typical Progression Pathways

This section outlines the stages typically followed to move from your profile's current state to Permanent Residency (PR).

Primary progression pathways for your profile:

Employer sponsorship context: 482 -> Employer-sponsored permanent pathways

After 482, employer-sponsored permanent pathways may be relevant in some cases; criteria and employer context matter.

Regional progression context: 491 -> 191

After obtaining a subclass 491 visa, you must live and work in a designated regional area for at least 3 years and meet taxable income requirements (currently AUD 53,900/year; refer to the Financial Roadmap). Given your current points gap of 30 points, securing the +15 point regional nomination via subclass 491 is a highly realistic and essential stepping stone to permanent residency (subclass 191).

State nomination progression: 190 EOI -> 190 Permanent Residency

Progressing through subclass 190 involves obtaining a state nomination (+5 points). Given your current gap of 30 points, state sponsorship is crucial to help bridge the remaining points needed to reach a competitive invitation benchmark.

Independent skilled progression: 189 EOI -> 189 Permanent Residency

For subclass 189, progression is purely points-based without state nomination. Given your current gap of 30 points, you must actively pursue single or combined points boosters (e.g. English test, NAATI) to become competitive for invitation rounds.

Other potential or alternative progression pathways:

Student pathway context: 500 -> 485 189/190/491

Taking a Student visa (500) to study in Australia can be an alternative route to unlock post-study graduate visas and eventual PR pathways. This requires additional financial investment and time.

Pathway Friction / Reality Check

This section shows how competitive each pathway is in practice -- where your profile stands against recent invitation benchmarks.

Employer Nomination Scheme Visa (subclass 186) (186): Reality check

General Skilled Migration (GSM) is highly competitive. Success requires strict alignment between your nominated occupation, your assessing authority's exact requirements, and current state-level demand matrices. Missing specific state ties (like regional work or onshore residency) is the primary friction point.

Skills in Demand Visa (482): Reality check

Employer sponsorship context is central to this pathway.

Critical Compliance Alerts

These are mandatory compliance flags, not optional notes. Each alert reflects a binding 1 July 2026 rule threshold and must be resolved or verified before a pathway can be relied upon.

High - Points-table position below minimum threshold

Based on the current dataset, estimated base points are 35. Historical invitation references and minimum thresholds may indicate higher competitive pressure.

Low - Country and passport information not provided

Current country and passport country can change the rule set and data context for some pathways; without them, the analysis scope narrows.

Second-instalment risk (dependant English status)

About AUD 4,890 per dependant (not indicated by your provided family status). Where a dependant aged 18+ cannot show functional English, a second instalment can apply per dependant. Your provided family status does not indicate this risk, but it should be reassessed if circumstances change.

Gap Analysis & Considerations

The following items are educational priorities to consider while assessing application readiness.

1. IMPORTANT

The analysis identified a comparable official-data basis for the possible pathways shown.

2. IMPORTANT

Missing data fields, especially occupation, English level, and sponsorship context, are limiting comparative signal quality.

3. IMPORTANT

For points-tested pathways, age, English, and occupation signals are being read against historical invitation references.

4. IMPORTANT

For the 482 pathway, employer sponsorship context, role alignment, and salary thresholds are core variables; the 1 July 2026 CSIT floor is AUD 79,423.

5. IMPORTANT

Cost planning should use 2026 baselines: 482 base charge AUD 4,015; 189/190 base charge about AUD 6,140; and dependants aged 18+ without functional English may trigger a second-instalment risk of about AUD 4,890 each.

6. IMPORTANT

Completeness and consistency across document categories are data-quality variables that directly affect signal strength in the report.

7. IMPORTANT

Personal strategy, formal applications, and tactical planning sit outside this report's scope; those areas require a registered MARA professional.

Common Pitfalls

The most common reasons for application rejection and how to avoid them:

Skills Assessment: Wrong NOC/ANZSCO Code Selection

Choosing an occupation code that doesn't match your actual duties leads to rejection. Carefully read the 'lead activities' list for each code.

Skills Assessment: Insufficient Work Evidence

Employment letters must include ANZSCO code, duty descriptions, duration, and salary. Generic statements are rejected.

Language Test: Score Validity Issues

Language test results are valid for 2-3 years. Applying with an expired score results in automatic rejection.

Language Test: Wrong Test Selection

Different visa types accept different tests. For example, IELTS Academic is not accepted for General Skilled Migration.

Application: The 60-Day Rule

You must lodge your application within 60 days of invitation. This deadline cannot be extended. Prepare before you receive the invitation.

Financial: Insufficient Settlement Funds

You must demonstrate adequate funds for your family size. Insufficient financial evidence is a common rejection reason.

Health: Invalid Health Examination
